

深圳市大数据研究院 Shenzhen Research Institute of Big Data

About Us

Shenzhen Research Institute of Big Data (SRIBD) was established in March 2016, initially by the team on information processing and application in big data related field, led by Prof. Zhi-quan Luo, a member of China Academy of Engineering. In 2019, SRIBD became a Shenzhen City Institute for Fundamental Research. Focusing on Mathematics and applications of data science, SRIBD devotes its efforts in three major research directions: theories and algorithms, common software and technologies, and applications of big data. SRIBD strives to be a world class research institute and a platform for international collaboration, to contribute to the development of China big data industry, to advance big data research and development, and to create social and commercial impact in Shenzhen and the Greater Bay Area.
